Parking Meter Issue Is Put Up to the Public

The question of whether parking meters are to be installed on the streets of Hope was laid before the City Council Tuesday night.

Petitions in behalf of the meters were presented by Hope business houses and by the people of two towns in the trade territory, Patmos and Washington.

What is done about the meter question rests with the people—the people of Hope. If the council should decide to recommend the issue in all probability would still be checked back to the people in a referendum.

Cities have voted either way on the parking meter issue. You ordinarily think of meters as belonging to the larger towns. But Little Rock turned them down in a referendum, while several smaller towns in the state approved them.

The Star has stirred up this question from time to time, and, frankly we favor parking meters. There are other means of controlling overtime parking in the business district — if enforcement goes along with the ordinance. But meters automatically show a car is overparked, for all the world to see — and somebody does something about it.

There are going to be some folks in Hope who will oppose the meters. But before they go to vote on the question they should be reminded that this is a trading city, and most of the jobs and profits we have here depend on the maximum of good will and sales throughout the territory Hope serves.

The Star in recent years has been receiving continuous complaints from farmers and those living in trade territory towns about their inability to find parking places downtown when coming here to shop. Some of these out-of-town shoppers have finally passed us up to trade in larger towns where, paradoxically enough, it is easier to park your car than here, Texarkana, to be specific.

We have enough to do to hold our trade position against larger cities without giving away the one great natural advantage a small town certainly ought to have—more room.

Now that the parking meter question has come up let's discuss it and act on it — with the knowledge that our town has suddenly grown up and therefore really has to do something about the parking issue — a decision which faces every city of consequence sooner or later.

Vice-President Hulan White said the first noon meeting will have Ed Tinnell, El Dorado, as principal speaker. Mr. Tinnell is very active in Jaycee work and has held practically every office in the state organization.

It was also announced that the group's cleanup campaign had been postponed. ## Farmers Urged to Attend Meet Friday

Joe Hardin, president, Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation, will appear before the Hempstead county Farm Bureau Friday afternoon at 1:30 in the Hope City Hall Municipal Courtroom of the county unit of the independent Farm Organization. All Farm Bureau members are urged to attend and all others interested in farming are invited.

Mr. Hardin, a leader in Arkansas and national agricultural circles is well informed on our present farm program and problems. He will discuss the present situation as well as the program planning for immediate future years.

Mr. McKenize in announcing the meeting said this is an important time for President Hardin to be with us due to the many questions from the memberships regarding the provisions of the recent National Bill to correct inequities in cotton allotment. Local PMA representatives have been invited to be at the meeting.

The law provides that no farmer's acreage quota shall be reduced to less than 65 per cent of his average plantings in the years 1946, 1947, and 1948. The law also provides that the quota shall not be less than 45 per cent of the farmer's highest acreage in any one of the three years.

It is understood that every farmer who considers that an inequity exists in his cotton allotment for 1950 is to make a written request before April 20 with the County PMA committee.

Mr. McKenize is "very much interested in every member knowing the many details which the cotton acreage law provides. It is believed that all should avail themselves of this information in the most practicable manner. The present act corrects only inequities for the year 1950.

Three children from the fifth grade in Paisley have had book reviews published in the Arkansas Gazette.

Political Boss of Kansas City Shot to Death

Kansas City, April 6 — (AP) — Charles Binaggio and Charles Gargotta, recognized political and underworld chiefs of Kansas City's northside, were shot to death early today in their political club here.

Police immediately began a minute investigation of gangland and political activities in search for a clue to the double murder.

Senate Passes Bill to Admit Refugees

Washington, April 6 — (AP) — Legislation to let additional thousands of European refugees come to this country to make their homes passed the senate just before last midnight.

The bill, liberalizing the 1948 displaced persons law by raising the number that can be admitted to 350,000, caps a long and bitter struggle in the senate. Republicans and Democrats in almost equal numbers joined to put it over, by a final vote of 58 to 15.

As passed, after stormy session that last nearly 12 hours and set a new record on the number of roll call votes (20), it conforms in its essentials to a measure passed by the house last June.

The argument was largely over terms on which various members felt strongly there was general agreement all along on the basic idea of admitting more refugees.

The senate bill eliminates provisions of the 1948 act which President Truman assailed in his election campaign as discriminatory against Catholics and Jews. He repeatedly has prodded congress for changes in the existing law.

Differences still remain to be ironed out with the house, but Senator Kilgore (D-WVa.), a leader in the fight for the legislation in the form that was approved, said he expected no difficulty in this.

Gas Bill Is Big Headache for Truman

Koy West, Fla., April 6 — (AP) — President Truman's closest confidantes said today he considers his action on the natural gas bill one of the toughest decisions he faces this election year.

Thousands of persons have telegraphed or written either to urge its approval or call for a prompt veto.

They include, on the one hand, many of his close personal friends and Democratic party followers from the Southwest, who want the measure signed; and powerful big city politicians on the other hand, who are demanding a veto.

The measure would prohibit the federal power commission from fixing the price of gas delivered to producers by independent producers.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters only that Mr. Truman will take his time about acting. He acknowledged that there was quite a lot of pressure from both advocates and opponents of the legislation.

Speaker Rayburn of the house, a Texan, and one of the President's closest pals, is an outspoken advocate of the measure.

You Have to Face Life Because Nobody Can Live Safely Anywhere in a Hungry World

By HAL BOYLE

New York. — (AP) — Oh, for the life of an oyster.

It sounds pretty good to a care-tired man doesn't it — a life career there on the quiet ocean floor, lulled by the waves, fretted by no mean ambitions, hurting nobody, and free of all troubles?

That's the kind of life the oyster would like to enjoy, too.

He just wants to be nature's pacifist, a real isolationist, a true self-contained individualist.

The oyster does everything possible to avoid responsibility. He never has to go to a psychiatrist to find out why he hates his parents, because he never even knows who his parents were. And he doesn't want to.

At birth he is an invisible tadpole. He swims about for a few days, seeing about as much of the world as the crew of the average submarine on patrol. That gives him enough memories for one lifetime, and he settles down to the sea bottom and fastens himself to the shell of an ancestor, his only tie with the past.

He is neither an employer nor a laborer. He owns nothing but a calcium hut, and he builds it alone out of himself and the sea.

He lives in a big bed with thousands of other oysters. He is the perfect neighbor. He doesn't eat crackers, brag, or argue about religion. If another oyster builds a house on his roof he doesn't even complain about his property rights.

The woes of matrimony? — not for him. He solves the problem of sex by being a lady oyster one year, a male the next. What difference does it make? The other oysters don't care.

He doesn't tear down his body with bad habits like staying up nights or hanging out at bars. He even drinks 45 to 50 gallons of water a day, enough to satisfy any doctor.

All he wants to do is sit there and dream — and produce other little oysters. He sifts his food from the sea, and it brings him all he needs.

Wouldn't you think a simple fellow like that, warring on nobody, asking nothing of anybody, would live forever in happiness, safety, peace and good health?

Well, kiddies, he doesn't. The oyster may yearn to be his own world. But he is too good to last. The oyster becomes every body else's world.

Safe-crackers of the sea floor — little animal oyster drills — bore through his shell to get at his flesh. Starfish ambush him. Mud-worms waylay him. Even sponges tunnel into his bedroom. And as for health? Did you know that tiny sea parasites are always trying to swim through his doorway and give him kidney trouble? Yes, kidney trouble.

And if he escapes all these neighborhood thugs, there is still his greatest enemy — the arch-landlord, man. Man will guard him from other foes only to fatten the poor trusting bivalve for market in a world he never knew.

But the real lesson of the oyster is: You have to face life — nobody can live safely along in an ivory tower anywhere in a hungry world.

Two Hurt in Railway Collision

Two Patmos youths, Arlin C. Archer 21, and Royce Rogers 16, were injured late yesterday when a railway testing car struck the automobile in which they were riding at the old Highway 29 and L. A. Crossing, south near Hope City limits.

The railway car, a complete engine of the Sperry Products, Inc. used to test rails, carried the automobile over 150 feet before coming to a stop, investigating officers said. The vehicle was completely demolished.

Neither of the youths were believed in a critical condition. Both were treated at a local hospital. Archer, home on furlough from the army, had just purchased the second-hand automobile. Local and state police investigated.

Merger of AFL, CIO Develops Into Possibility

Washington, April 6 — (AP) — A possible merger of the AFL and CIO has suddenly become a serious topic of conversation in labor circles.

The reason: AFL President William Green's observation that the chances for such a move are "better today than they have been in the past six years."

Green was commenting on a proposal put forward by Philip Murray, president of the CIO.

Murray invited the AFL, John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers, the International Association of Machanists, and the railroad brotherhoods to join in a grand program of cooperation on legislation, politics, and economic problems.

Once that is done, Murray said, the groups could work toward unification into a single organization of some 16,000,000 members. The AFL claims 8,000,000 on its rolls, the CIO 6,000,000 and the other organizations about 2,000,000 together.

Green and Murray have split in the past over how unification should be accomplished, and their differences still seemed to exist.

The AFL chief favors immediate consolidation — as contrasted with the step-by-step procedure suggested by Murray. Green made clear in an interview in New Orleans that he hasn't changed his mind.

Claims Against Broke Auto Dealer Mount

Edwardsville, Ill., April 6 — (AP) — Claims against the fabulous Robert L. Kneizer, bankrupt automobile dealer, have mounted to $8,815,587.

The federal government asked yesterday, for $2,245,801 in income taxes for 1948. If the claim is allowed — and federal income tax claims usually take priority in bankruptcy cases — other creditors will be frozen out.

Internal Revenue Collector V. Y. Dallman of Springfield, Ill., filed the claim with bankruptcy. Referee Thomas Williamson in Edwardsville.

Dallman listed unpaid taxes at $1,712,418, interest at $105,278 and penalties at $428,104.

G. William Horsley of Springfield, attorney for the trustee handling the bankrupt estate, called the federal claim ridiculous. He said it would be fought in the courts.

One of Worst U. S. Criminals Shot to Death

Los Angeles, April 6 — (AP) — Fred Walter Lennan, 39, one of the nation's worst criminals is dead, beaten to the draw by a rookie officer and an FBI agent.

And today, police and federal men throughout southern California are trying to track down his "most-wanted" partner, believed traveling in a house trailer with his wife, listed as "a dangerous gun moll."

Lennan was cut down yesterday by FBI Agent Jerome J. Dount and State Highway Patrolman Sam H. McDaniel after a 70-mile an hour chase on a desert road near Mojave, Calif.

He was spotted by Dount near Lancaster after the trio had been reported seen in that area, towing a house trailer. The car pulling the trailer was reported to contain Lennan, Lee Emory Downs, 44, listed by the FBI as one of the 10 most-wanted criminals, and Downs' wife, Patricia. Lennan apparently drove on alone to draw pursuers from Downs and his wife.

Dount set out in pursuit. At Mojave he stopped and enlisted the help of McDaniel. They overtook Lennan's car about 10 miles west of Mojave after a 70-mile an hour chase.

Bednasek Is Relaxing After Acquittal

Cedar Rapids, Ia., April 6 — (UP) — Robert Bednasek slept late today, relaxing after the tremendous emotional strain of the trial which found him innocent of strangling his University of Iowa sweetheart.

The handsome 24-year-old student rested here in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Bednasek, for the first time since his sweetheart died in his rooming house on the campus at Iowa City last Dec. 11.

Sentences of Contempt Are Upheld

New York, April 6 — (AP) — Contempt sentences imposed on lawyers who defended the 11 convicted Communist leaders have been upheld by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in a 2-1 decision.

The sentences call for jail terms ranging from 30 days to six months for the six men, including Eugene Dennis, a Communist Party official who acted as his own attorney.

In sustaining the penalties, the Court of Appeals yesterday held that the lawyers employed "crude tactics" and "willfully obstructive tactics" during the nine-month Red conspiracy trial.

63 to Appear Before Malvern Grand Jury

Malvern, April 6 — (AP) — Circuit Judge Roy Danuser today ordered 63 persons, including state policemen and Malvern city officers, subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury investigating gaming and bootlegging in Hot Spring county.

Malvern, April 6 — (AP) — Unusual suspension of a sheriff from part of his duties is the latest development in Hot Spring county's gaming and bootlegging probe. The action is headed for an early test in the Arkansas Supreme court.

Circuit Judge Roy Danuser yesterday relieved Sheriff Ed Deere and Deputy Clarence McCrary of responsibility in enforcing liquor laws. Kenneth Coffelt, Little Rock, attorney for the officers, said he would appeal immediately to the Supreme court and seek a decision as soon as possible.

The partial suspension was a surprising development in an investigation of conditions in "dry" Hot Spring county. Judge Danuser said Deere and his deputy were neglecting their duty.

The judge appointed Arlin Jones, former FBI agent, temporary prohibition enforcement officer in Hot Spring county.

Apparently the suspension order was the first of its kind in Arkansas. Coffelt said it was entered under act 132 of 1935. A section of the act permits a circuit judge to appoint an officer to enforce liquor laws. Coffelt said the section had not been interpreted by the Supreme court.

Twenty-seven persons have been indicted on a total of 78 charges of gaming, liquor law violations and perjury since the Hot Spring county grand jury started special sessions under direction of Danuser on March 27.

Ex-Officers Laughs, Tells of Slaying

Batesville, April 6 — (AP) — A former Batesville police officer, on trial on a charge of first degree murder here, laughed nervously as he told his story today of how he shot a youthful war veteran during a struggle last year. Then he apologized to the jury.

Batesville, April 6 — (AP) — Defense testimony started today in the trial of a former Batesville policeman on a charge of first degree murder.

The defense has indicated it would attempt to prove Jess Long was forced to shoot Tom Williamson, Batesville busin essman, to prevent Williamson from choking him to death.

Williamson, 27, was shot fatally after he and others of his party had been stopped by Long and Ernest Broekerson, then also a police officer, as they returned from a barbecue last June 21.

A quarrel developed which led in Williamson's death. Williamson's attractive widow testified for the state yesterday that she and her husband begged Long not to shoot. Williamson was shot three times, and the two policemen drove away as Williamson died in her arms, she said.

Dulles to Aid Acheson on Foreign Policy

Washington, April 6 — (AP) — The state department said today John Foster Dulles, New York lawyer and foreign policy expert, had agreed to serve as consultant to Secretary of State Acheson.

A formal announcement said the Republican leader was asked to take the position by both President Truman and Acheson.

Only last night, Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross denied reports that Mr. Truman proposed to name Dulles to a top policy post with the rank of ambassador at large.

Lattimore Tells Senate He Is Not a Communist

Washington, April 6 — (AP) — Lattimore, accused by Senator McCarthy of being Russian spy in the United States, avowed that the charges are "baseless and contemptible lies."

He said McCarthy has "violated" his responsibility as a senator and has made unauthorized use of secret government documents.

Lattimore, an authority on Eastern affairs, took note of McCarthy's contention that he prove Lattimore is or was a Communist and declared:

"I was not and have not been a Communist x x x and I am not a Communist now."

Lattimore made his denial testimony prepared for the foreign relations subcommittee investigating McCarthy's charges that Communist and Red sympathizers have infected the state department.

Washington, April 6 — (AP) — State investigators awaited Lattimore's testimony. Senator McCarthy said he is ready to go to the department if necessary.

The investigation promises to be a test case that he will produce witnesses to back up his statements.

Lattimore, an American citizen on Far Eastern affairs, has denied the accusations repeatedly to men. In doing so, he called McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican "madman."

Lattimore's formal answer was scheduled to be made in a public hearing arranged by the state foreign relations subcommittee. That group is investigating McCarthy's contention that the department is harboring Communists and Red sympathizers.

The audience will be augmented by television watchers. TV works having arranged to broadcast the session from 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. EST.

Even as Lattimore was making the denials, however, he was "the subject of adverse criticism" from Senator Knowland (R-Calif.), asserted in a statement last night that Lattimore "consistently" has played an important part in undermining the public of China.

Early this morning Knowland delivered a speech on the senate floor saying he had written in the statement.

Lattimore, Knowland, said "bears a terrific responsibility to the people of the United States, the people of China, over 500 million of whom are not the orbit of international communism."

Knowland added that Lattimore and others he influenced in "Far Eastern division of the department have made a contribution to the debacle we have taken place in China and Far East."

Says Truman Not to Take Hand in State

Washington, April 6 — (AP) — Biffie doesn't think President Truman or the administration should take part in the Arkansas race.

The race pits the decision of Truman Ben Lancy against the one of the state's governor, McMath, a staunch supporter of the President.

Biffie, a native Arkansan, secretary of the senate and of Mr. Truman's, said yesterday administration will take the race.

Members of the Arkansas delegation declined comment. McMath and Lancy, both from 1945-48, are seeking Democratic nomination, while Lancy is equivalent to

Regardless of Past Action Spain May Become Military Asset to Allies in Future

By DeWITT MacKENZIE,
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

It begins to look as though the democracies finally may call off the boycott against Spain — the land of Western Europe ever since General Franco became dictator in 1939 as the result of his revolt against the Communist supported republic.

The trend was first indicated some weeks ago when U. S. Secretary of State Acheson announced a change in American policy towards Spain. He favored resumption of full diplomatic representation in Madrid as soon as the United Nations repeals its 1946 recommendation that all members withdraw their ambassadors — a recommendation which was followed.

This reversal of policy seems to have paved the way for a striking development at the recent meetings of the Atlantic pact defense ministers in The Hague. Spain is being of vast strategic importance militarily, the question is a curation of her relation to the 12-nation Atlantic pact.

The conference military advisers favored the leasing of air bases from Spain, rather than giving it direct membership in the pact. It is said this proposal will be placed before the meeting of the pact nations' foreign ministers in London early next month.

All twelve nations must approve Yokosuka. He leaves Friday to become navy chief of information in Washington.

before Spain can be approached in the matter. Chief opposition comes from Britain, whose Labor government objects to the Franco regime on ideological grounds.

The point is that if bases should be leased from Spain, it would open the door to full inclusion of Spain in the Western defense system if she should wish to participate.

The campaign against Franco Spain in the U. N. and elsewhere has been paced by Moscow ever since the Spanish revolution. Naturally the belief is strong in Western diplomatic circles that Russia wants to keep Spain from becoming a part of the Atlantic pact defense.

There have been numerous reasons for the opposition to general Franco's regime. From the Russian standpoint one of the burning issues lay in the fact that the Spanish regime which Franco had much help from both Hitler and Mussolini. He reciprocated by selling them supplies in the world war until America and Britain outbrought the Axis powers.

Curiously enough one of the main charges against the Franco government is that it is a dictatorship. The regime is accused of the suppression of civil freedoms.

Of course believers in democracy abhor dictatorships. But it is an interesting note that the Western world should turn thumbs-down on the Madrid government, because it is a dictatorship, while playing ball with other totalitarian regimes which are tougher, for

Atopsy May Reveal Cause of Death

Los Angeles, April 6 — (AP) — An autopsy today may help clear up the mysterious death of Mrs. Sally Oswald, 39, whose nude body was found yesterday in a hotel room with ink scribbles on her back and chest.

Police were unable to determine immediately whether she committed suicide, died of alcoholism or natural causes, or was slain.

Floor Sander Credited With Saving a Life

Texarkana, April 6 — (UP) — A husky young floor sander was credited today with saving the life of a fellow worker by crashing through a locked door into a burning room here.

Robert Cook and Leroy Clark were sanding floors in a Texarkana home when an explosion set the room afire and slammed shut a door, trapping 24-year-old Clark unconscious and alone in the room.
 Cook threw his weight against the door and pulled his companion from the burning room.

example, Soviet Russia.
 The answer to this naturally is that the Western powers have been making a virtue of expediency.

Now under the leadership of Washington this anomalous position may be clarified. It isn't entirely altruism; Spain might be a mighty big asset militarily to the West in event of another conflict.

Truman May Act to Offset GOP Attacks

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, April 6 — (AP) — It's going to be interesting to see what President Truman does, if anything, to offset the battering his administration has received from the Republicans.

This is an important year for Mr. Truman. It's an election year when the people will have to vote for all 435 members of the house and 96 of the 98 senators.

Although right now the Democrats have a majority in both houses, Mr. Truman's program—at least the part of it which affects us at home—hasn't been doing well.

His plan for middle-income housing got knocked on the head.
 His hopes that congress will continue federal rent control when the law ends next June look pretty dim.

His civil rights program is getting no place fast. His desire to wipe out the Taft-Hartley labor law looks hopeless.

So much for his program. Meanwhile, his administration has been bludgeoned by some of the Republicans, led by Senator McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican.

McCarthy charged the state department was padded with Communist or pro-Communist, and he named some names.

Those accused by him, or some of them, have denied his charges and called him some unpretty names, including "liar." But Mc-Carthy has conducted a kind of triple attack:

He attacked people, he attacked the state department, and he attacked the wisdom and leadership of the secretary of state, Dean Acheson. He called Acheson a "pompous diplomat with a phony British accent."

And some of the top Republicans in the senate — Taft of Ohio, Club,

Bridges of New Hampshire, Wherry of Nebraska — have joined in lambasting the state department, particularly for the way it has handled policy toward China.

(Not all the Republicans go along with McCarthy. Some, like former secretary of War Stinson, have denounced his performance, and former Senator John Foster Dulles wrote to Acheson that "public dissemination of rumors and suspicions encourages our enemies.")

Mr. Truman, vacationing in Florida, opened up at a news conference there with the statement:
 "the greatest asset that the Kremlin has is the partisan attempt in the senate to sabotage the bipartisan foreign policy of the United States."

McCarthy demanded—and so did the senate subcommittee investigating his charges — that Mr. Truman let the subcommittee see the secret and confidential files on the people named by McCarthy. The senator said the files would back up his charges.

Mr. Truman refused, as other presidents before him have refused, to let out secret files.

Mr. Truman has told his loyalty board to check over once again
 some of the people named by Mc-Carthy, and report back to him.
 It's possible Mr. Truman will have some statement on this report when he gets it.

DOROTHY DIX

Dangerous Game

Dear Miss Dix: What is your opinion of the young woman who plays around with married men just for the fun of it? An attractive young friend of mine sees no harm in going out with married men for good times, dining, dancing, driving around in a car until late hours in the night, provided their intentions are not serious and she does not become involved in a love affair. She may be right, but will the single men nearer her own age have the same regard for her? Will her own reputation remain intact?

E. F. G.

Answer: The girl who picks out a married man for her playfellow is short on good, hard horse sense. True, he may blow her to more expensive amusements than a poor boy can, but she has to pay too high a price for them.

Pays with Name

To begin with, she pays with her good name. She may be as chaste as ice and as pure as snow, but nobody will believe it. When a young man takes a girl out and spends his money on giving her a good time, it is a part of the technique of courtship.

But the married man is different. He is bound to another woman and when he takes a girl out to dinners and dances instead of his wife, and when she is out with him until late at night a cynical world sees nothing innocent in the companionship.

Then the girl who runs around with married men greatly lessens her chances of marrying. She wastes her beauty and her youth on the men who can't marry her and cuts herself off from the men who could marry her.

Although no definite plans have been made, Mr. Truman is expected to return the Chilean visit, possibly sometime this year.

Still, another danger that a girl runs who goes about with married men is that of falling in love with them. She cannot possibly guard herself against this, and when it happens, it is a catastrophe that almost invariably wrecks her life. And still another reason why it is wrong for a girl to play around with married men is because of the suffering it inflicts on a sister woman. No girl would want the tables turned on her and to spend her evenings alone at home while her husband was showing some pretty young girl a good time.

So let the married men alone, girls. Don't poach on another woman's preserves. It doesn't pay.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am perplexed at the behavior of my wife. We have been married for six months and have got along beautifully together until last Saturday night when I went out and played poker with some of my old pals. I lost $15 and was compelled to hock our only possession of value, my wife's engagement ring. She refused to let me have it to pawn, although I explained to her that it was a debt of honor, so I had to take the ring by force, and she slapped me, which made my blood boil.

I cannot understand my wife's actions and am writing to ask if you can explain her viewpoint.

N. S.

Answer: No woman will have any difficulty in understanding your wife's viewpoint, but the thing that no woman can understand is the viewpoint of a man that it is more of a debt of honor for a man to pay a gambling debt than it is for him to pay his debt to the woman whose life he has taken into his hands.

Of course, you will say you

Bankers Are Worried at Cabinet Shift

SAM DAWSON
New York, April 5 — (AP) — Some bankers are getting alarmed at the President's plan to reorganize the executive offices. They fear the attempt of the cabinet to get its nose under the tent of the national banking urge the senate to block that part of the President's reorganization plan. It calls for the abolition of the separate comptroller of the currency, who monitors the national banking system, and the placing of his duties and powers in the hands of the secretary of the treasury.

And ABA doesn't charge that this is the first step toward nationalization of the banking system, but a few of its members do. And ABA does oppose the proposal and contends the nation's bank examiners should be kept free of control by other governmental agencies, particularly one with political ties, such as the secretary of the treasury is apt to have.

Some of ABA's members go further and see in the proposed shift a threat to state banks also. Arthur T. Roth, president of the Franklin National bank at Franklin Square, Long Island, who is egging all bankers on to put pressure on the senate, says:

"If the office of the comptroller of the currency is abolished, the secretary of the treasury would take the comptroller's place on the three-man directorate of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. State banks are members of the FDIC, and this dominating position of the secretary of the treasury would obviously give him great influence over the state banks as well as the national banks."

The objectives the President seeks in giving the comptroller's duties to the treasury are: Economy of operation, and elimination of overlapping functions.

The ABA contends that neither objective would be achieved.

Not all bankers are fighting the plan. One reason is, Roth says, that some bankers think the shift of the comptroller's duties to the treasury is part of the Hoover commission's reorganization plan for which they have general enthusiasm. They dislike to appear to be opposing this plan, which has widespread popular appeal.

Roth tells the bankers that the Hoover commission made no recommendation for changing the status of the comptroller's office, and that this idea is entirely separate, and was included in the President's proposal without benefit of the Hoover commission's blessing.

Extension of Unemployment Pay Asked

President Truman sent to congress today a message recommending extension of unemployment compensation payments to an additional 16,000,000 persons and raising benefits by approximately 20 per cent.

Mr. Truman sent the message to Washington by a courier in the hope it can be transmitted to the house before it recesses this afternoon.

The message calls for legislation spelling out recommendations he made in his "state of the union" budget and economic messages to congress in January.

White House officials said the President pleads in the message for enactment of legislation at this session since federal law must be supplemented by state enactments and many legislatures are meeting in 1951.

SEEKS RE-ELECTION

Little Rock, April 6 — (AP) — State Sen. J. Lee Bearden of Leachville, today filed his corrupt practices pledge as a candidate for re-election in the 30th senatorial district (Mississippi county).

Mississippi county Rep. L. H. Autry, Burdette, previously had filed as a candidate for the senate seat.

Midwest Park Groups Meets at Petit Jean

Little Rock, April 6 — (AP) — An annual three-day meeting of the Midwest State Park association began at Petit Jean State park today.

An address by Wayne Fletcher, director of the Arkansas Resources and Development commission, and motion pictures of Arkansas wildlife were to highlight the first day's sessions. Panel discussions on improving and developing parks are scheduled tomorrow.

Pilgrims to Get to Worship on St. Peter's Grave

Vatican City, April 5 — (AP) — Roman Catholic Holy Year pilgrims soon will be able, for the first time since early Christian days, to worship at the spot where St. Peter is said to have been buried.

A church announcement said that the ancient Vatican grottoes under St. Peter's Basilica upon which excavation has been underway for more than a decade will be inaugurated as places of worship in ceremonies late next month.

After that, Vatican informants said today, mass and other religious ceremonies very likely will be celebrated daily in the underground spaces.

Five altars have been erected, using fragments of the Basilica that the emperor Constantine built in 337 to mark what now church archeological experts believe to be the final resting place of the apostle.

Vatican sources said there is room in the grottoes for about 5,000 people.

These grottoes are part of what was once the first St. Peter's Basilica which had been built over ancient Roman cemeteries. They are divided into three naves, supported by massive pillars.

Ex-Leader of Gestapo to Pay With Life

Baab, who was in charge of Jewish affairs in Frankfurt for the Gestapo, was convicted by a German court after testimony from 150 witnesses. The court also found Baab guilty of attempted murder of 21 Jews, bodily injury to 29, and unlawful detention of 22.

CREAMO ONLY MARGARINE WITH CREAM

Choice of yellow quarters or uncolored pounds

A check of margarine brands confirms the report that only one margarine is made with cream. That margarine is Creamo. Margarine industry sales figures reveal Creamo's popularity has grown more rapidly than the average of all other brands combined since Creamo was made available for national distribution.

In tests against the most expensive type bread-spreads, school children chose Creamo Margarine 5 to 1. Tests like this prove Creamo's made-with-cream flavor is superior on bread and more delicious for frying, baking and seasoning other foods.

Users say Creamo's extra flavor goes farther, too.

Navy Probes Cause of Explosion

Pearl Harbor, April 6 —(AP)—The navy sought today to learn why a newly-mounted engine on its Mars shall Mars caught fire, causing an explosion that destroyed the giant 80-ton flying boat.

Seven crewmen who were taking the $7,500,000 craft on a test run yesterday brought the ship to an emergency water landing and escaped minutes before 6,000 gallons of high octane gasoline exploded.

The navy launched an inquiry to learn:

1. Why carbon dioxide extinguisher equipment failed to check quickly the fire in the newly installed number three engine?

2. Why the wing tank cell of aviation gasoline exploded after the engine apparently was put out several minutes before the explosion shattered the Mars hall?

Mrs. H. did not elaborate. The huge flying boat, holder of the world passenger cargo record of 301 persons and crew of seven, had developed engine trouble Tuesday.

A new engine was installed and the crew too kit out yesterday for a test run. Then it was scheduled to take 40 passengers to Allameda, Calif.

Fire broke out about one mile off Keeli lagoon, the old clipper base between Honolulu and Pearl Harbor. The pilot nosed it around at 1,000 feet and brought it down.

This was not the first major accident involving a Mars flying boat. One of the huge planes disintegrated in the air off Annapolis in 1945.

SMUGGLED GOLD
Bombay, India, April 5 (AP)—Indian port officials probed today through the hold of a 25-ton Arab sailboat which they said already has yielded 3,250,000 rupees (about $650,000) in smuggled gold. They found nuggets of gold and 30 pound ingots concealed in the woodwork from stern to stern. Import of gold is banned in India.

FIVE MILLS

Bristol, England, April 5 —(AP)—Well, the customs inspector explained, narcotics, tobacco or nylon hose could have been hidden in that roll of newsprint.

He had just had the roll unreeled and found nothing but paper — five miles of it.

The New York Giants home run total of 271 in 1949 more than the second highest ever made.

Impressions at Spring Training

By WHITNEY MARTIN

Tampa, Fla., April 5 (AP)—A few impressions of the Florida training camps carried north by a correspondent who is convinced the major league pennant races will be decided by lot—a lot of pitching.

Most unchanged club—the Boston Red Sox, who will start with the team that finished the 1949 season, man for man. The Cardinals and Dodgers each will have one new face.

Most changed—the Boston Braves, a reassembly job whose new parts may or may not mesh on such short notice.

Biggest disappointment—Sam Jethroe, Braves' Negro outfielder, who has failed to impress except for an ability to run like a scared rabbit.

Biggest—Seve Bille, the hulking lad on first base for the Cardinals who is down to a mere 240 pounds now after reporting at 257.

Most springily and promising team—the Phils, hustling and happy bunch of kids playing for Eddie Sawyer, who knows how to handle 'em.

Sports Mirror

By the Associated Press

Today A Year Ago—Floyd R. Schwartzwalder, head football coach at Muhlenberg, was appointed head coach at Syracuse university.

Five Years Ago—Paul Thompson resigned as coach of the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey league.

Ten Years Ago—Toronto defeated New York, 1-0, in the third game of the National Hockey league's Stanley Cup finals.

Fifteen Years Ago—Craig Wood took the lead after 54 holes in the Masters golf tournament at Augusta, Ga., with a score of 209.

Dallas Already Has Texas Opening Record

Dallas, April 6 (AP)—Dallas already has set a new Texas league opening day attendance record and is pushing for an all-time record in professional baseball.

Dick Burnett, owner of the Dallas club, said today a check-up indicated that at least 25,000 tickets had been sold for next Tuesday's opener here with Tulsa when the Cotton Bowl will be used in an effort to show this city is ready for major league ball.

The Texas league record is 18,018 set in 1930 by Fort Worth.

Burnett, who thinks an attendance of 50,000 will show the major leagues Dallas can step in as a member is hopeful of filling every one of the 75,000 seats in the Cotton Bowl. The all-time opening day attendance record is 73,103 set at Cleveland in 1948.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

Augusta, Ga., April 6 (AP)—Norman Von Nida, the little beret-wearing Australian who is paired with another little guy, Ben Hogan, for today's opening round of the Masters golf tournament, must have tried out 5 clubs since he has been here. Von Nida likes the American-made implements better than those he can get at home and is trying to find a set that suits him exactly to take along to the British open. It's his third trip to the United States but his first appearance in this elite tournament. Sammy Snead complained he "never was so nervous" after completing his final practice round, which could be taken as a good or bad sign. Some experts figure it was the pressure of being favorite that ruined Cary Middlecott here last year, but of recalled nervous gents who played way over their heads as result.

What's The Youth? Ace Parker, Duke U. backfield coach, encountered Center Jim Gibson, injured in spring football practice, in the university tonsorial parlor the other day. "How's the shoulder, Gib?" Parker queried politely. "Not so good, coach," replied the 24-year-old athlete. "Guess I'm getting too old for this game." With a perfectly deadpan expression, ace matched Gibson's sigh and said: "That's the way I felt once—when I was 35."

Sandtrap Siftings Former tournament bureau managers for the PGA are threatening to form an "alumni association." There are enough of them to hold some right lively reunions. George Zaharias, watching the golfers, remarked that his golfing partner, Babe, had to take time for a visit to Hollywood, Fla., to straighten out her game a little before coming here. When Cliff Roberts, Masters' tournament chairman, escorted President Fielding Wallace of the Augusta National club into the press tent yesterday, Wallace explained he never had seen the place (in 15 years) and wanted to learn why so much space was needed. Tommy Barnes, the Atlanta amateur, claims he hasn't shot a bad round in the national amateur championship since the war and has lost in an early round every time. "And that's the only chance I get to qualify for this tournament," Tommy groaned.

In One Ear The U. of Georgia, which has been panned for playing a "bowl" football schedule, is boasting about one now. Nine of the eleven teams the Bulldogs play next fall have played in one or more bowl games in the past and Alabama is getting hot up about Bobby Marlow, a 195-pound back who showed in spring practice. Red Drew can't decide whether to use Bobby at fullback or right half on offense or as defensive line-backing specialist. Freddie Corcoran, the voice of Ted Williams, tells of Ted heaping lavish praise on an opposing pitcher. "He's a swell guy," said Williams. "He's nice as they come, a wonderful personality—and he's lovely to hit."

NCA Doubles Number of Cage Teams Chicago, April 6 (AP)—The NCA has put an end to internal squabbling over selections for its post-season basketball tournament by doubling the field to 16 teams and automatically including 10 major conference champions.

The method for selecting tournament entries is being worked out by a committee headed by Arthur (Dutch) Onborg, new athletic director at the University of Kansas. It was reliably learned that the champions of the nation's 10 major conferences will go and the other six berths will be filled from so-called "members at large."

Generally regarded as the dominating conferences are Pacific Coast, Big Ten, Skyline Six, Big Seven, Border, Missouri Valley, Southwest, Southeast, Southern and Ivy league.

There will be no fixed limit on the number of teams chosen from any one of the NCAA's eight districts other than certifying eight from the East and eight from the West for divisional playoffs.

Kentucky Derby to Be Run in a Month

New York, April 6 (AP)—The Kentucky Derby will be run a month from today, and as of now, Oil Capitol and Hill Prince stack up as the "big two."

Oil Capitol, Tom Gray's Flamingo Stakes winner, recently arrived on the derby scene at Louisville from Hialeah, Fla., and began training in the role of a 7 to 2 favorite for the May 6 classic. Meanwhile, most lines had C. T. Chenery's Virginian, Hill Prince, at 6 to 1.

But the oddsmakers were busy today shuffling their quotations for the Blue Grass extravaganza and it wouldn't be surprising if they move Hill Prince right up there with Oil Capitol because of the way the Chenery charger won yesterday's Experimental Handicap No. 1 at Jamaica.

From now on the derby warm-ups will be coming in rapid-fire order, leading to the Churchill Downs classic at Louisville May 6. A lot of the candidates will be weeded out in the process.

Hill Prince, bred and owned by C. T. Chenery, has been away from competition since last September, when he won the Cowdin Stakes at Aqueduct and cracked the track record with a 1:10 3-4 clocking for six and one-half furlongs.

Just what the bay son of Princequillo will meet in the $2,000-added Experimental, over the six furlong route, remains to be seen. It is expected that Greentree Stable will send out Guilloine, winner of the Belmont Futurity last fall. Guilloine sharpened up for the Experimental by winning the Cedar Manor purse Saturday, his first start of the year.

Hill Prince, which will be ridden by Eddie Arcaro, drew 124 pounds in the Experimental ratings of John B. Campbell, handicapper and racing secretary of the New York tracks. In his list of weights, Campbell forecasts on a basis of their two-year-old form what he thinks the horses will do at three.

This 124 was just two rounds below Middleground, the top King Ranch derby candidate, which got the highest rating by Campbell. Middleground is over at Belmont Park, and may not start until other possible starters Wednesday include Casemate, only horse to beat Hill Prince last year. Casemate was given 116 pounds in the Experimental.

Washington, April 5 (AP)—The senate comes up to its first votes today on the hotly argued issues of how many war refugees should be admitted to the United States, and how they are to be selected.

Hill Prince Groomed for Big Derby

New York, April 6 (AP)—Hill Prince, rated with the top two-year-old colts of 1949 and Virginia's big hope in the Kentucky Derby, is scheduled to make his 1950 debut Wednesday in the experimental free Handicap No. 1 at Jamaica.

From now on the derby warm-ups will be coming in rapid-fire order, leading to the Churchill Downs classic at Louisville May 6. A lot of the candidates will be weeded out in the process.

Gen. Sheppard Ordered to Take Pacific Command

Washington, April 5 — (AP) — Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Sheppard, who commanded the Sixth marine division in the Okinawa campaign, was ordered today to take command of the Pacific Fleet Marine Force at Pearl Harbor next July.

Col. John C. McQueen is due to move next August from the 12th marine corps reserve district at San Francisco to headquarters in Washington. He was born in Car-

Students Admit Dynamiting at University

Fayetteville, April 5 — (AP) — Two University of Arkansas sophomores admitted today they blew up a country school building near here March 25. Nobody was injured in the blast.

This was announced by Sheriff Bruce Crider, who said the students had been booked on an open charge and had been released on $500 cash bonds. Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Peter G. Estes said formal charges would be filed within 24 hours.

The students were identified as Martin C. Hawkins III, 19, Searcy, and Ben S. Jones, 22, Newport. They were taken into custody at their respective rooms at 3 a. m. — exactly eleven days to the hour after the school building explosion. Sheriff Crider said the youths rollton, Mo., and his legal residence is Colorado Springs, Colo. These shifts were among 15 transfers of high marine corps officers announced by marine headquarters.

U. S. May Give Financial Aid to Argentina

Washington, April 5 — (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson said today it would be a normal move for the United States to grant financial aid to Argentina in the wake of improved economic relations between the countries.

Acheson told his news conference the entire relationship between the two nations is markedly better. And, he said, the U. S. is anxious to play its part in co-operating economically with Argentina.

The secretary said various steps to help Argentina are under consideration. Relations with Argentina often have been severely strained in the past. Emphasis now is being placed on eliminating friction points, especially on economic affairs.

Argentine Finance Minister Ramon A. Cereijo has been in Washington two weeks. In that time he has settled problems with a number of American companies. The Argentine government often has said it does not want a direct government loan. But, it has suggested the U. S. could provide financial aid in these two ways:

1. By granting of a credit so Argentina could pay off quickly her backlog of commercial debts owed to American exporters; and
2. Arranging a credit with American manufacturers to supply Argentina with badly needed farm machinery.

Helicopter Kills Two in Landing on the Sea

Norfolk, Va., April 5 — (AP) — A navy helicopter toppled over after a carrier landing at sea and its churning blades killed two men and injured four others, two critically, the navy announced today.

The accident occurred aboard the carrier Wright yesterday, the navy said, and details here were sketchy. The Wright was at sea on training maneuvers and was a day out of Quonset, R. I. Names of the dead and injured were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

They drove to the Sony Point school building after attending a fraternity dance. They fired several rounds of shotguns into the building and then decided to blow it up.

They took four sticks of dynamite from Hawkins' car — he said he got the explosives from his uncle's farm — and set off the charge with the aid of a battery. The youths said they remained after the explosion to retrieve the electric wiring used in setting off the blast.

Hawkins admitting throwing a pistol in the Arkansas river after learning that ballistic tests were being made of bullets found at the scene of the explosion. The students admitted, also having "shot up the building" about two weeks before.

Joan Crawford Still Has That Leg Art

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 5 — (AP) — Joan Crawford was at it again this week — posing for cheesecake. In fact, she calculated that she was posing for leg art for the 8,000th time. I don't know how she arrived at this total, but, as any photo editor will tell you, that's a lot of cheesecake.

"As long as the public wants it," she volunteered, "I'll give it to them."

This has been going on since Miss Crawford arrived in Hollywood, back in the days when the Charleston and the ukulele were going around the first time. "I was posed being shot out of firecrackers for the Fourth of July," she recalled between scenes of "Lady Of The House." "I was a female Santa Claus coming out of a chimney. I was in a track uniform running the 100-yard dash. I thought I would never get before a movie camera."

She finally did make the movies, although she was sometimes as scantily clad as she was in the publicity pictures. She became the symbol of the flaming flapper.

Now many years and an academy award later, she is still willing to display her form. And with men who know cheesecake best, she's as good as ever.

Miss Crawford pooh-poohed the glamor girls who have been turning up their noses at leg art. She indicated there must be something wrong with them, and added: "Let the public decide." So far the public demand for babes in bathing suits has not ebbed.

Since she is an experience hand (or should I say leg?) at cheesecake, I asked her if there are any tricks to the trade.

"No," she replied. "I just pull in my tummy, throw out my chest, and let 'er go."

However, she did demonstrate a few helpful hints. A gal should not stand with her legs too far apart, except when wearing sporty clothes. Miss Crawford added that a gal with knobby knees (hers aren't) or bowed legs (hers don't) should not be photographed from the front, but from the side.

"Actually, there are two kinds of cheesecake," she explained. "There is the upstairs kind, which can be shown in costume pictures, and there is the downstairs kind, in musicals and comedies."

Upstairs or downstairs, La Crawford can still hold her own with the starlets of today.

Says pint-sized Mickey Rooney: "It's no handicap to be short in the movies."

"It's a lot easier for them to make you look taller on the screen than shorter," he reasoned. "Why, I look a lot taller in pictures than I really am."

"There are just as many short guys on the screen as tall ones—Alan Ladd, Jimmy Cagney, Bing Crosby, Gene Kelly, Humphrey Bogart, to name a few."

Terry Moore, Rooney's co-star in "Freddie The Great," is just his height. It's the first time she has had a leading man under six feet. "It's nice to look someone in the eye and not stretch my neck to do it," she commented.

APPLIES FOR STATION — Washington, April 5 — (AP) — Radio Jonesboro, Inc., applied to the communications commission today for a new standard radio station at Jonesboro, Ark.

Operations on 970 kilocycles, one kilowatt, daytime only, were requested. Commission officials said the company indicated it will ask that the station be known as KNEA.

R. H. Halbert, owner of Hotel Noble at Jonesboro, is president of the company.

MacArthur Directs War Games

Tokyo, April 5 — (UPI) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur has spent the past three evenings personally supervising some unusual type of top secret war games in the Far East, an aide indicated today.

The precise exercises involved were not known, but they have been important enough to make MacArthur change his schedule quite outside his regular habit.

For the past three consecutive nights MacArthur's five-starred automobile has been parked behind the barbed wire guarding a big concrete building believed to be the army's communications center in Japan.

The building is in the rear of the Radio Tokyo building and next door to former Japanese navy headquarters. It was built by the Japanese but is now in the area used by the U. S. Army.

For the past three days MacArthur has been going to the building around sundown and has spent the evening there. Extra guards were thrown around the area several days ago.

MacArthur's aide, Col. Lawrence Bunker, said MacArthur was participating in "war games." Other official sources said they could not talk about MacArthur's movements.

It was believed MacArthur may be participating in what is known as a command post exercise. This probably is being carried out on the highest level in the Far East command, giving staff officers a workout in theoretical problems with no actual troops involved. The cars of other generals have been observed parked beside the building.

HEARING SCHEDULED

Little Rock, April 5 — (AP) — U. S. engineers today scheduled a hearing on proposed flood control and drainage work on Plum Bayou in Pulaski, Lonoke and Jefferson counties. It will be held at the city hall in England April 10.

Guglielmo Marconi obtained his first English patent for wireless telegraphy in 1896.

Segment of Heart Is Transplanted Successfully

Detroit, April 5 — (AP) — A dramatic operation in which a six-inch segment of a dead person's main heart artery (aorta) was transplanted to save the life of a 37-year-old man was reported today by Henry Ford hospital.

The hospital called the delicate operation a success. Authorities would not say whether the surgery was without precedent. The name of the patient was withheld. The transplanted artery was from a deceased person. It was used to replace a diseased artery in the living patient's heart. The patient's condition was greatly improved and he was able to breathe and eat. He had been in a coma for several days.

Because he was the first to have a similar operation, the patient's name was withheld. He was a resident of the hospital.

Maryland Fire Finally Burns Itself Out

Laurel, Md., April 5—(P)—Weary sentries ended their vigil today over a fan-shaped, 600-acre southern Maryland area burned over and blackened by a forest fire.

The fire had raged out of control for nearly six hours yesterday in the area bounded by Beltsville, Fort Meade, and Bowie. The flames were whipped by 20-mile-an-hour winds.

Twenty fire departments, 350 soldiers from Fort Meade, and many volunteers turned out to fight the blaze. They were aided by light planes from the army installation, in radio contact with forestry trucks.

The blaze began on the U. S. agricultural research station near Beltsville. Maryland State Forester H. C. Buckingham said it was a "preventable fire." He would not elaborate, however.

Forestry officials said it was the worst fire in Maryland in four years.

gram to technical aid and assistance;

(2) Rule out proposed encouragement and guarantees to Americans investing private capital in overseas ventures;

(3) Fix a five-year time limit to the program.

However, the committee approved the full $45,000,000 asked by the administration for the first year's operation of the program designed to bolster underdeveloped areas against communism. The house had cut this amount to $25,000,000.

The house — except for the money cut — approved the administration bill in full.

In spite of the restrictions Chairman Connally (D-Tex) told reporters the senate committee measure "carries every essential to carrying out the point four program."

Connally said there was a strong feeling among committee members that any program of investment guarantees should be handled in separate legislation and not as a part of the point four plans of technical assistance.

Other restrictions in the committee bill would limit point four contract making to June 30, 1952, cut the administrator's salary from $18,000 a year to $15,000 and end the program on June 30, 1955.

The program was originally proposed by President Truman as point four of his inaugural message in January, 1949.

CLEMENCY leaned back on the wooden seat of the waiting room of the Belgravia Employment agency and wondered why it was necessary for prospective employees to sit on anything quite so hard.

The room was bare and austere; decorated, though that hardly seemed the word, by a large square mirror. It was probably put there on the wall as a hint to those being called upon to interview important clients of the firm to make sure that they presented a scrupulously neat appearance.

Clemency looked at her reflection in it, and the reflection looked back at her without any of the satisfaction which an ornamental young woman of 22 has the right to feel, with the knowledge that she is rather charming to look at. Up to now, this particular young woman had found good looks rather more of a liability than an asset. Quite a number of women seemed to prefer their children's nursery governess to be elderly and not so good looking.

She was conscious of mounting nervousness. If she didn't get a job soon she would have to go home, and that was the last thing she wanted to happen. The little flower-decked railway station at Belsham Lacy, the country town in the West Country of England where her father's legal practice was established, seemed like a prison gate.

At that moment the door of the inner sanctuary opened and the tall, fair girl who had gone in last came out, shutting the door behind her.

Clemency glanced at her, hoping to ask the outcome of the interview to which the girl had been called 10 minutes ago. Their eyes met, as though in answer to her thought, the other paused beside her.

"No luck. She wanted me to go abroad, but I don't intend to tie myself up. When my fiancé comes back from Germany we'll be getting married."

THE office door opened again and Miss Simson, the proprietress of the agency, looked out.

"Miss Norton." She beckoned. Clemency rose at once to obey the summons, with a smile at the fair girl.

Miss Simson drew the door she was holding a little closer. "Just a minute," she said in a low voice. "It's no use wasting any more of my client's time unless you are willing to consider a post abroad—North Africa?"

North Africa? Farther than Clemency had ever hoped to go. Visions of things she had always yearned after shone brilliantly out. Her heart gave a little excited leap, but her voice—she had a particularly pretty speaking voice—was calm as she answered:

"I've no objection to going anywhere abroad."

"Good." Miss Simson motioned her to follow. As she entered the inner office she said: "I don't think we need despair, Mrs. Amberley. Here is the other young woman about whom I spoke. I think she would suit you."

"That sounds too good to be true." There was a touch of acidity in the slow, slightly drawing voice.

Clemency's first impressions of Syrie Amberley were that she looked as though she had stepped out of the pages of a fashion magazine and that she was one of the most breath-takingly lovely creatures she had ever seen. She had dark red hair and the flawless skin that goes with it. The whole effect was so dazzling that Clemency did not attempt to analyze them.

Miss Simson said: "I'll leave you men of the household—if only Jon

Clemency noted that Syrie Amberley had a distinct suggestion of bad temper about her lips.

to talk," and disappeared through another door on the other side of the room.

MRS. AMBERLEY lit a cigarette as she appraised Clemency. Then: "Are you sure you are willing to go to North Africa?" she asked. "Make up your mind definitely before we go any further. It would be too crashingly boring to find out all about you and then have you say, like that idiot who just left, that you don't want to travel."

"On the contrary," Clemency replied quietly, "there is nothing I'd like better than to travel."

"Good." Clemency's prospective employer's smile seemed spontaneous and brilliant, although it did not change her eyes. They were strange eyes, almond shaped with an uncommon shade of hazel-green, with a line of gold around the edge of the iris.

She continued: "I've one little girl, nearly four years old. She's rather out of hand at present. I brought her back for a tonsil operation, and her governess with her. I thought the governess would go back with me—but she suddenly decided that she must stay here. A most abominably dirty trick—she knew we were due to leave next week, and she let me down at the last moment. I don't think any reference she gets from me will secure her another job!"

Mrs. Amberley's mouth set, and Clemency noted that when she was not smiling there was a distinct suggestion of bad temper, almost of cruelty, about the line of those red lips.

Realizing for the first time that her prospective employee was standing, Syrie said carelessly: "Do sit down. I hate looking up at people when I'm talking to them," and as she obeyed: "I suppose you've looked after children before?"

"No, but I'm very fond of children and good with them. The matron of the school will give me a reference. And I looked after a friend's children for several weeks last summer."

Syrie's laugh was brittle. "What about your family? Frankly, relations are an absolute curse."

"My family would not interfere with me," said Clemency quietly. "My father is a solicitor in Devonshire where his father and grandfather practiced before him. He is married again and I prefer not to live at home."

Syrie looked at her more closely. The girl was pretty—unusual, too, that golden hair with those enormous brown expressive eyes. Syrie had no objection to the good looks of any girl who was not likely to trespass on her domain—and Baba's governess would hardly be likely to do that. As for the there, Piers can't bear his younger brother out of his sight." She puffed on her cigarette.

MRS. AMBERLEY drummed the tips of her exquisitely manicured nails on the table. "What I want," she said frankly, "is someone who isn't afraid of responsibility and who will be able to take Baba off my hands. Of course, I'm fond of the child, although I'd rather have had a boy if I had to have one. Jon is sentimental over infants. He ought to have married a girl who would have crowds of the creatures and gone gooey over them. However—" she shrugged—"I don't intend to do anything about that. I'm not shocking you?"

"If people don't like children, they just don't," said Clemency.

"Exactly. You and Baba have one wing of the house practically to yourselves and your own courtyard. There's a car for your use when you want to go out and arrange time off. We have an Arab nursery maid who's quite good. I'd like you to agree to stay for two years."

"You might want me to leave long before that!"

"Not as long as you carry out the duties I have outlined. The salary is 200 pounds a year."

"It sounds wonderful."

"One more thing. Are you engaged or anything like that?"

"Nothing."

"You won't suddenly want to get married then?"

"I should think it the most unlikely thing in the world."

"Then, will you be ready a week from today? And can you come and see me at the Savoy tomorrow at 4?"

"If you care to take up my references quickly, I could start tomorrow," said Clemency.

"Oh, bother the references. I'm sure you won't disappear with my jewelry." Syrie's laugh could be pretty, though it was a little harsh. "Come tomorrow. As a matter of fact, I want to go out of town for the week-end and if you were with Baba, it would be a relief. Ah, what's your name?"

"Norton. Clemency Norton."

Early Approval Seen for Appointments

Washington, April 5 — (AP)—Senator Tydings (D-Md.) today forecast early and favorable senate action on President Truman's appointment of Thomas K. Finletter as secretary of air.

Finletter's nomination was signed yesterday at the winter White House in Key West, Fla.

"It is one of the best appointments the President has made," Tydings, chairman of the senate armed services committee, told a reporter. Mr. Finletter is well qualified.

It may be possible to act on the nomination at a session of armed services committee Thursday, Tydings said, "although we usually let these nominations wait for a president of the University of North Carolina."

Senator Gurney (R-S.D.), former committee chairman, agreed with Tydings that approval by the senate appeared certain, saying Finletter "is evidently a very capable man."

As chairman of a special aviation commission that made a detailed survey of postwar aviation, Finletter, a New York attorney, is widely known among members of congress. He is a strong advocate of a 70-group air force, in contrast to the present 48-group.

As secretary of air he would succeed W. Stuart Symington who

Sultan Jailed in Indonesia Trouble

Jakarta, U. S. I., April 5 — (AP)—The young Indonesian central government, harassed by a new revolt in a member state, rushed Sultan Hamid II of West Borneo off to jail today as the mastermind of a plot to overthrow the Jakarta regime.

The latest uprising occurred in Makassar, the Celebes, capital was nominated by President last week to be chairman of the national security resources board.

At the same time Frank C. Pace, Jr., director of the budget, was appointed secretary of the army to succeed Gordon Gray, who will be a special presidential assistant for a few months prior to becoming president of the University of North Carolina.

The Symington and Pace nominations also may clear the senate. Tydings said a partial check of members indicated no opposition.

Senate approval of both Finletter and Symington would place two champions of air power in key defense posts.

Finletter emerged as a powerful advocate of security through air power in 1947, when the air force in policy commission he headed urged the building of a 70-group air force to prepare the U. S. for "modern war" if it should come.

city of the state of East Indonesia, where rebellious state police captured the local federal garrison in a lightning coup.

The colorful 37-year-old Sultan Hamid, a cabinet member in the central government and president of the state of West Borneo, was arrested in Jakarta a few hours before the flareup of Makassar.

The two developments brought to a head the troubles boiling up in the young United States of Indonesia since it gained independence from the Dutch last December.

Sultan Hamid was charged with being the brains behind the revolt in West Java last January by Capt. R. P. P. (Turki) Westerling.

There was no immediate evidence that Hamid was directly connected with the Makassar uprising, although the purpose behind the Celebes and West Java revolts were similar—to oppose the strong central powers of the U. S. I. government.

The early morning calm in Makassar was shattered by machine-gun fire as East Indonesian state police and dissatisfied Indonesian soldiers of the former Royal Netherlands Indies army took over the harbor, the radio station and control of the city in a coup which lasted only about 45 minutes.

Clemency met a keen glance from gray eyes as Piers Amberley shook hands with her.

MOVED to Calais, Paris for two nights, and then the take-off to North Africa. France was behind them as it was painted on a daily colored handkerchief; night-time, between a starlit sky and the indigo sea, then Algiers sparkling in sunlight and gorgeously romantic.

And now, the mountains with their wooded slopes left behind, far below in an almost blinding glare, the Sahara.

When Clemency first saw the desert, the excitement which had held her from the moment she left the airport turned to something which for the moment, was frightening.

Suppose they were to come down miles from anywhere!

Clemency had always been curiously free from physical fear; in the few times in her life in which it might have attacked her she had been absolutely calm. Once, when she had been boating on a lake and the boat had overturned—once when she had been crossing a field and a maddened bull had come at her. And several times when death had come very near during the

It was not physical fear she felt, but a premonition, deep inside her, of impending disaster. And she knew it was for the second time. The first had been in the agency when she had a sudden instinct to refuse the job she had just accepted.

LITTLE Baba Amberley, who had been asleep on her knee, awakened and began to cry.

"Hush, sweetheart," Clemency soothed. "We'll soon be home."

"I want to get out of this old plane," announced Baba, who as Clemency was beginning to discover, knew her own mind to a sometimes alarming extent. "I feel sick."

"Oh, for the love of Mike, keep that child quiet!" Syrie, who was next to them, turned her head. "We ought to be there in five minutes."

"Hear what Mummy says? You'll see Daddy very soon now."

The child glanced at her mother and lapsed into silence. In about five minutes Biskra was in sight.

The plane circled like a great bird, descending ever nearer to the earth. Clemency, holding the child against her, watched and felt the strange, not altogether pleasant sensation that the earth was coming up to meet them. There was the slightest bump and they were rolling across the airfield, before coming to a halt.

The journey, so full of novelty and excitement, was over. Clemency stepped out, to the solid ground beneath her. She had forgotten her strange, disquieting dread and in its place was a feeling of relief or release.

While the light luggage, which they had brought with them—trunks had to come by a different route—was being unloaded, Syrie glanced around her with a cool detachment that Clemency envied, while she hoped she herself looked untroubled—and felt quite sure that she did not.

Justine, the elderly Frenchwoman who was Syrie's personal maid, came near. Madame's leather jewel case in one hand, Madame's small white suitcase at her feet. The relationship between Justine and Clemency was, up to this point, a little uncertain. The Frenchwoman had been very polite and quite helpful; but her attitude was a kind of armed truce. She was not quite sure whether Clemency was going to overplay the part of lady or not. Which amused Clemency, who only asked to be encouragement Justine would have said more; an encouragement which, however, Justine did not get from Clemency, who shrank from an inborn reticence from discussing her employer's affairs.

Justine, touching Syrie's arm, informed: "There is Colonel Amberley, madame."

CLEMENCY looked with quick curiosity and saw a man talking to one of the officials. The next moment he turned and walked quickly toward them.

Colonel Amberley might have been one of two people, but as Syrie said coolly: "Hello, Piers."

He was beginning to wonder if he were expected to walk home. Clemency had made up her mind that this was not Baba's father.

Piers Amberley was a slender, dark man, with a thin, aristocratic face and high cheekbones. A strong face, and an oddly contradictory one. The light gray eyes had a curiously guarded expression, and though the lines of the mouth were generous, there was a sarcastic twist to the lips. A hard man—Clemency felt a sudden stirring of antagonism.

"You arrived ahead of time," he replied. "I phoned and was told you weren't expected till sunset. Well, Baba." He bent and touched the child's cheek with one finger, but made no attempt to kiss her.

"Hello, Uncle Piers," Baba seemed unusually subdued. "Where's Daddy?"

"Daddy had a headache," her uncle replied. "Come along. The car is here."

Syrie said: "This is Miss Norton—Baba's new governess, Piers. Cortham decided she had enough of the desert—but Miss Norton feels that she can take it." Clemency met a keen glance from those gray eyes as Piers Amberley shook hands.

"The desert isn't as bad as it sounds," he said with a slight smile. The luggage was put aboard a big, grey limousine which was waiting. Clemency, Justine and to the car, or during the subsequent settling into it.

It was Baba who, as they drove off, demanded, "Is Daddy's head aching a lot, Uncle Piers?"

Before he could answer, Syrie turned round to observe: "We'll soon know all about it—no doubt." There was an odd inflection in her voice.

Piers Amberley said, with a touch of constraint: "Only a touch of the sun, Syrie. He's all right, really." There seemed to be a note of defense in his voice.

Clemency was certain it was not her imagination that the two in the front seats did not exchange another remark. Baba prattled to Clemency and Syrie until her mother bade her sharply to be quiet. At which the maid looked at Clemency and shrugged her shoulders.

Clemency looked out of the window with growing fascination. There was a spell in this stark expanse of sand, broken by the small hump-backed hills and the patches of cactus; with ever and anon a group of date palms clinging high toward the pale blue of the sky, and with the mountains rising in the distance.

The Amberleys' house, on a large oasis, near a picturesque Arab village, was visible some time before they reached it and Justine drew Clemency's attention to it. The sun, just beginning to drop toward the west, bathed the massive white building. The house was built four-square round its courtyard, a tower at either end of the flat roof, balconies outside the green jalousied windows, and square courtyard in front with fountains flinging up their spray into the evening air.

Clemency looked with a deepening curiosity at this place which was to be her home, for suddenly she remembered that she had promised Mrs. Amberley faithfully that she would remain for a minimum of two years. It had been an easy promise to make, seeming to fit in exactly with what she wanted. But now—

Says Congress Can't Get Truman's Files

(Editor's note: This is the last of three stories explaining how the President can refuse congress' demands for secret files.)

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, April 5—(P)—There's a long history behind the present dispute between congress and the President over this question:

Does the legislative branch of the government (congress) have a right to see secret files in the executive branch (headed by the President) if he thinks it better not to disclose them?

Herman Wolkenson, an attorney of the justice department, has made an exhaustive study of the history behind this dispute and published his findings in the Federal Bar Journal.

The conclusion he reaches—that the congress can't compel the President to turn over executive records—are his own, not those of the justice department although the justice department has taken exactly the same stand since the start of the American government. This is a brief summary of his study:

Although Wolkenson says there have been many instances where congress was turned down in its demands upon the executive branch, he lists 29 cases as outstanding.

Those 29 cases cover refusals by 17 Presidents, (starting with Washington) and their department heads to heed congressional demands. When the department heads refused, they did so with presidential approval of their action.

(The Presidents, besides Washington, were: Jefferson, Monroe, Jackson, Tyler, Polk, Fillmore, Buchanan, Lincoln, Grant, Hayes, Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, Coolidge, Hoover, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Truman.)

Wolkenson says: "For over 150 years—almost from the time that the American form of government was created by the adoption of the constitution—our Presidents have established, by precedent, that they and members of their cabinet have an undoubted privilege and discretion to keep confidential, in the public interest, papers and information which require secrecy."

"The messages of our past Presidents reveal that almost every one of them found it necessary to inform congress of his constitutional duty to execute the office of President and, in furtherance of that duty, to withhold information and papers for the public good."

"Courts have uniformly held that the President and the heads of departments have an uncontrolled discretion to withhold the information and papers in the public interest, and they will not interfere with the exercise of that discretion."

Wolkenson means here courts lower than the Supreme court, since the Supreme court never yet has had to pass on the issue.

Congress sometimes might try to pass a law saying the President would have to give congress any information it wanted.

If congress passed such a law, the President undoubtedly would refuse to obey it, choosing to fight it up to the Supreme court for a final decision. He'd argue such a law was unconstitutional and was an attempt by congress to interfere with presidential rights and powers.

And, Wolkenson points out, the President doesn't even have to obey an order by a federal court to produce papers which the President says, for the public good, should not be revealed.

In 1867 Chief Justice Marshall ordered President Jefferson to produce certain papers in the trial of Aaron Burr when Burr said the papers would help his defense.

Marshall thought the President would have to obey such a court order but still said the President would withhold any portion of the document which the President considered confidential.

Marshall agreed that the President should be sole judge of what he considered confidential. Jefferson not only ignored Marshall's order but said that under our framework of government the judicial branch (the courts) has no authority to order the President to do anything.

AWARDED CONTRACT

revenue that would more than offset the initial reduction."

He called a balanced budget "the surest guarantee of our economic strength" and said the best way to accomplish this balance between income and spending is "to cut spending."

Unwise administration of the tariff and reciprocal trade programs, Martin said, already has caused widespread unemployment in some areas because of an influx of cheap goods from abroad.

He said that "as long as the United States is pushed down a course that parallels Britain, there will be a damper on the enthusiasm and daring that are the cornerstones of lasting prosperity."

Martin made no specific recommendations for cuts in spending but he is head of a Republican policy committee working on a program to cut at least a billion dollars from the $20,045,030,164 omnibus appropriation bill now before the house.

Offers Plan to Combat 'Inflation'

Washington, April 5—(P)—A five-point "prosperity program" was offered today by house republican leader Martin, of Massachusetts. He called it a non-partisan proposal.

Martin said it would "go far toward reversing the tide" he declared is carrying the nation in the direction of socialism and unemployment.

1. Remove wartime excise taxes.

2. Create tax incentive for small business.

3. Balance the budget and start paying on the national debt.

4. Administer the tariff program more carefully.

5. Remove "the threat of socialization that hangs over the country."

Repeal of excise taxes, along with "severe taxes which the small businessman is shackled," Martin said, would give business such "a hefty stimulus that there would soon be an increase in tax

Miss MacKinnon Barred From Tourney Play

Bluff, March 5—(P)—The Arkansas Women's Golf association has barred its two-time champion, Betty MacKinnon from further tourney completion.

Miss MacKinnon, who won the title in 1948 and 1949, lives in Mount Pleasant, Texas, but is a member of the Texarkana Country club. Mount Pleasant is some 40 miles from Texarkana.

Her eligibility to compete in an Arkansas tournament has been questioned since she first won the title at Fort Smith two years ago.

Mrs. Don Chronister, president of the association, said that, by a mail ballot, members had voted to limit eligibility of Texarkana club
